WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION BILL TO BE PRESENTED ON MONDAY

Governor's Bill to be Submitted to Legislature With Good Chances of Passage

AMENDMENTS ARE PROPOSED

Senator Crow Suggests Certain Changes in Original Draft, but Governor And His Attorney General Are Silent on Matter.

Next Monday night it is expected that the workmen's compensation bill, a bill that will if passed have a most important effect upon the operation of mills and mines in the Monongahela valley, will be introduced in the state legislature at the instance of Governor Brumbaugh. Though there will be some fight on the bill, and amendments offered, it is generally believed the bill will go through and become a law before the time for adjournment which is set for May 16.

The workmen's compensation bill has been carefully worked out by Governor Brumbaugh and Attorney General Francis Schunk Brown, so that it provides for definite remuneration of employes who are injured while at work. The bill seems complete. An elective schedule of compensation is provided and the method of procedure through a compensation board or referee is fixed. In fixing compensation it is provided that the state be divided into districts, with each district having a referee or such officers as are necessary. The liability of an employer is carefully defined, together with the system of compensating by agreement.

Senator W. E. Crow of Uniontown chairman of the Republican committee, has presented to the Attorney General a list of proposed amendments, but no announcement has been made as to the intention of the governor on the matter of including them in the bill.

The Crow amendments follow:

Reduce period of compensation from 500 to 400 weeks.

When employer elects to accept compensation law and employe does not, gives employer right to common law defenses.

Where employe is re-engaged after disability, at an occupation other than his original position have salary paid him apply to compensation due him for a fixed period.

The governor's bill provides that the state shall assume the burden of administering the act for two years after it becomes a law. Senator Crow wishes the state to continue indefinitely the transfer of obligation to the employer to be made a matter of future legislation.

ARRANGING TO GIVE OPERETTA

"The American Girl" to be Presented by High School People at Auditorium

PROF. DANIEL WILL DIRECT

Under direction of Prof. I. T. Daniel 24 pupils of the high school are preparing Dr. Charles Vincent's operetta, "The American Girl," for presentation at the high school auditorium on Friday evening, April 16. The operetta is descriptive of the life of a girl at the average English seminary. Eva May Hope, together with her maid, Bridget O'Halloran, has been sent by the former's father to stay with an aunt while he is absent in Germany on a business trip. Through a mistake Miss Hope is directed to a girl's seminary where a new pupil is being expected. The thought of bringing a maid to school meets with the disapproval of the pupils and they determine to play a hoax on the supposed new pupil, which turns out to be Eva May Hope. Matters are explained and everything turns out all right.

The operetta abounds with tuneful melodies and choruses and splendid dialogues. The part of Eva May Hope, the leading character will be assumed by Miss Mabel Gaut. That of her maid will be taken by Miss Marie Heupel. Miss Carew, the principal of the school will be characterized by Miss Adelmina Riva. Among the other characters will be the following: Myra and Vera, sister, by Miss Pauline Collier and Miss Mary Lavchem; Miss Miffins, assistant principal and athletic instructor, Miss Grace Chesner. Others who will have special parts are: Misses Thelma Duvall, Jean Bowers, Hazeldell Lambert and Millie Newton.

TRESPASSING CAUSES MANY DEATHS IN STATE

Investigations Show That of 563 Killed on Steam Railroads in 1914, the Death of 344 Was Due to Walking on Right of Way

Figures compiled by the bureau of accidents of the public service commission show that of the 563 persons killed on the steam railroads of the state in the last six months of 1914, 344 were trespassers. The total number of fatalities was 45 larger than the record in the same period of the previous year.

In the same period 146 employes of the railroads were killed and 3,971 injured, 84 being killed when struck by trains and 23 when falling or jumping from engines of cars.

Only four passengers were killed and 315 injured, as compared with 11 killed and 600 injured in the same period of 1913.

Thirty-nine persons were killed at unprotected grade crossings and 87 injured, 20 of those killed being in automobiles, wagons, sleighs or other vehicles. Eightyseven persons were hurt. At protected crossings 19 persons were killed and 60 hurt.

The causalties among the railroad employes, as worked out by John P. Dohoney, investigator of accidents for the commission, show a decrease of 34 in the fatalities, but an increase of 450 injured.

MANY ATTEND LECTURE ON IRELAND AT LYCEUM

Numerous Illustrations of Interesting Points in Ireland Shown as Rev. P. E. Maher Speaks—Local Views Likewise Exhibited.

From 200 to 250 people attended what proved to be an especially interesting and instructive lecture at St. Jerome's Lyceum Friday evening given by Rev. P. E. Maher, of Roscoe. His subject was "A Trip Through Ireland," and he illustrated it with splendid stereopticon views.

Rev. Maher spoke at some length in explaining the 100 or more scenes that were thrown upon the canvas. Included in the lectures were views of some of the most noted places in Ireland, among them being some of the famous lakes and rural sections.

Scenes about Lake Killarney, one of the most famous of all Ireland's points of interest, were reproduced to the intense delight of the audience, as well as scenes from many districts. Pictures of some of the most noted men in Ireland were shown, including Donald O'Connell and Robert Emmett.

Pictures of Queenstown and other cities were shown. Flags were pictured, and the last picture thrown on the screen was that of the Stars and Stripes.

Together with the pictures of Ireland were shown illustrations of several Charleroi points of interest, such as are seen frequently on postcard pictures as the postoffice, the banks and some of the streets.

The lecture was given after the regular Lenten service at St. Jerome's church Friday evening and proceeds will be devoted to Lyceum and church objects.

MEN'S GET-TOGETHER BANQUET NICE EVENT

Methodist Episcopal Sunday School Room Scene of Gathering Friday Night—Lawrence B. Frye Toastmaster and Several Talks Made.

Church efficiency and church welfare were discussed at a "Get-Together" banquet of men of the Methodist Episcopal church in the Sunday school room of the church Friday evening. About 60 men were present and an interesting program of talks was carried out.

An oyster supper was served the men, preceeding the speaking. Arrangements had been made by a committee from the official board for the supper.

Lawrence B. Frye was the toastmaster. August H. Bosson, choir director of the Methodist Episcopal church, directed a male choir of seven voices in two songs.

The chief addresses of the evening were made by W. D. Pollock and H. J. Booth. Mr. Pollock spoke on "America as it is and America as it is to be." He told of the importance of church life in the affairs of the nation.

Mr. Booth spoke of "Church Efficiency," and under this theme discussed generally matters of interest to the churches. He spoke of means of interesting men in church welfare and of interesting them in such things as church finance and the social side.

Other addresses were made by C. C. Crill, of Pittsburg formerly of Charleroi, Rev. W. G. Mead, pastor of the church, Prof. T. L. Pollock, John S. Rodgers, Esq., and A. B. Cook.

The banquet was arranged virtually to promote church welfare. A resolution was adopted to have the "Get-Together" meeting held once a month.

MANY GOOD FEATURES TO BE SHOWN AT PALACE

BIG DEAL CLOSED AT BROWNSVILLE

Deed Recorded at County Seat For $82,500 Sale of Real Estate

LAND USED FOR GLASS PLANT

One of the largest real estate transactions that has been made in Washington county in recent years is involved in a deed in recent years is in the county seat. It is dated March 1, 1915, and by it the Monongahela National Bank of Brownsville, the National Deposit Bank of Brownsville, and the Second National bank of Brownsville, convey a property, a tract of 10.092 acres in the borough of West Brownsville, upon which is erected a glass manufacturing plant, to the Brownsville Window Glass Manufacturing company. The consideration named in the deed is $82,500.

It required $82.50 worth of revenue stamps for this deed and Attorney A. M. Linn, who made the sale, had considerable trouble on Thursday afternoon in securing enough stamps in town. It was necessary to visit several banks before the required amount was obtained and they are all in small denominations.

The deed is as flashy looking as a crazy patch quilt, made of bright colored goods. The stamps are plastered all over the instrument.

The glass plant recently resumed operations after being closed for several years.

SUCCESSFUL.

"The National League is bound to lead them all, in 1915," was the reply of an authority, when asked as to the baseball situation, according to the Altoona Tribune. "It cannot help it," he continued, with a man like former Governor Tener at the head of it. He is inspiration enough to make the National league the premier, even if there were a dozen other leagues in the field." This was a singularly happily worded tribute to the man who has has temporarily givenup statecraft to take the helm of rational, healthful outdoor sport, which after all is the safety valve of Young America.

Important in the extreme is the presidency of the National league, but it is doubtless true that Governor Tener's connection coming at this time has materially strengthened it in the popular regard. The American league has never hurt the National league in a single particular and as was predicted some time ago the Federal league will take a useful place and all friction will pass away. The honesty of organized baseball, if it ever was questioned, is guaranteed by the presence of John K. Tener as president of the best known league.

From all indications this will be a banner year for baseball. Its admirers are more numerous than ever and all are looking forward for the opening of the season with almost breathless excitement. Unless the lovers of baseball have complete confidence in the managers of their favorite game, they could not feel as they do at present. In these days of talk of preparation for war we should realize that baseball players and all lovers of outdoor life form the best kind of a reserve for military duty. The outdoor man is in all around man; he is most attractive as a friend and is above the petty jealousies and narrowness of men who scorn "God's outdoors."

With a splendid man like ex-Governor Tener at the head of the National league, we see before us the ideal type of American manhood. Pennsylvania is proud that he is one of her sons and lovers of baseball and outdoor life wishes his league all success for the coming season. John K. Tener made a most admirable governor of this great Keystone state and thus far he has added lustre to himself by his presidency of the National league. He is a man fitted to lead and excel in any field that commands his activities.

INCOME TAX.

Washington reports that the revenue from the income tax will be less this year than last. Then it was so disappointingly small that it had to be supplemented by the "war tax" in the unavailing effort to make up for the deficiencies created in the revenue only. It is not at all remarkable that the income tax returns should show a markeed reduction. Incomes depend upon the condition of business, says the Uniontown Herald. When depression is the rule, incomes shrink and the liability to pay taxes on swollen receipts becomes constantly and generally less. The Democratic way of relieving the public from the vexation of an income tax is to reduce the incomes to a point where it is not necessary to pay any tax. If they were equally successful in making the tax returns intelligible, considerable complaint would be removed this feature being almost as vexatious as the imposition of the tax in the first place.

"I shan't hold him in my lap all the way," she replied haughtily, "and he will not disturb any one."

"That makes no difference," said the conductor. "I couldn't allow my own dog to ride in here. Dogs must ride in the baggage car. I'll fasten him all right for you."

"Don't you dare touch my dog, sir!" cried Miss Carlson excitedly. "I will trust him to no one!"

Very indignantly the young woman marched to the baggage car, tied the dog, and returned. About fifty miles further on, when the conductor came through the car again, Miss Carlson inquired:

"Will you tell me if my dog is all right?"

"I am very sorry, madam," replied the conductor, politely, "but you tied him to a trunk, and he was thrown off with it some time ago.

Mrs. Robert Coulter, 520 Third St., Charleroi, says: "One of the family had the measels when he was a year old, which left him with weak kidneys. The trouble was most distressing at night and there seemed to be an inability to control the kidney secretions. I had often heard Doan's Kidney Pills recommended and I was induced to get a supply at Piper Bros.' Drug Store. The one who used this medicine was soon benefited and we have hopes of a permanent cure." (Statement [illegible], 1909.)

Her Hopes Realized.

On January 30, 1914, Mrs. Coulter said: "I will willingly confirm the statement I gave praising Doan's Kidney Pills some years ago. Doan's Kidney Pills made a cure for one of our family."

ALL DISTRICTS BUT 24TH REPRESENTED

This The Only Section in Country Without Congressman-Elect—Special Election Possible to Decide Successor to W. M. Brown.

Search of the congressional record at Washington shows that the 24th Pennsylvania district is the only district in the nation without a congressman-elect. The unique situation is due to the recent death of the late William M. Brown of New Castle, the twenty-fourth's representative-elect.

The death of Mr. Brown gives rise to an unusual question involving the procedure that shall be followed in selecting a successor. The exact status of the case is not entirely clear to many of those who are regarded as authorities on such matters.

Though county elections will be held in Pennsylvania next fall this is what is termed as an off year" in congressional politics since congressmen are elected only every two years and the last election was held last fall. This being true the congressional election in the twenty-fourth district will of necessity be a special election, even though it is held in conjunction with the regular county elections. A proclamation calling such special election must be issued by Governor Brumbaugh. As congress will not convene until December it is considered assured by the Pennsylvania delegation in congress that the governor will call the special election to be held in conjunction with the county elections a procedure that will eliminate much of the expense of a special election held separately.

The point on which opinions diverge the most relates to the manner in which the respective party nominations shall be made. The Democratic and Republican party rules states that in case of a vacancy requiring a special election to fill, the nominations shall be made by conferees, the basis of representation to be one for every thousand voters cast for the party candidate for president at the last general election and one for every fraction of one thousand over five hundred. On this basis, Washington county would have four votes Beaver county two votes and Lawrence county two votes.

As the election in the twenty-fourth will be a special election, called by the governor as such there are many authorities who hold that the expense of holding a primary will not be justified as they contend the party rules clearly state that the nomination shall be made by conferees. Other authorities maintain, however, that since the election will probably be held in conjuction with the regular county elections participated in by county candidates named by primary the same rules should govern the congressional candidates as apply to the county candidates.

A definite decision as to what course to pursue will likely be reached in the course of the next few weeks. Now that congress has adjourned party leaders expect to have more time in which to turn their attention to the question and hope to settle it at an early date.

The Goodrich Tire, like the trained athlete is all brawn and muscle—no fat

THE old Olympic Game promoters were great for what we call "form."

Symmetry, proportion, soundness and proper balance out-bid bulging muscles for favor—yes, and out-won, too, just as they will today.

Mere bulk never was synonymous with endurance—and the truth of this statement drives home with a bang, when you apply it to tires.

IF thick, heavy tires were the last word in tire construction, we could wipe out of existence a Goodrich Research and Test Department employing seventy people. We would take off the road a battalion of ten automobiles, that run twenty-four hours a day and every day in the year, grinding tires of all makes to pieces, just for the sake of information to us and eventual economy to the user of Goodrich Tires.

There is where we learn to cut out of a tire the material which gets the user nothing.

Of course, when we stripped tire price lists of their padding—fictitious values—we expected rivals to say we had stripped our tires.

IT was their only "come-back." They had to say that, in stripping down prices to the point where they were fair to dealer and consumer and left no room for injurious price-cutting tactics, we had stripped our tires of some quality, too.

THE Goodrich Tire, like the trained athlete, is all brawn and muscle—no fat. It represents an achievement—the ability to cut out the extra costs of manufacture, the extra costs of labor, of extra, needless material, and to give you the best, long-mileage, high-standard tire in the world.

There are padded tires as well as padded price lists.

Don't pay for padding.

Now don't forget this—we are talking in the main about Goodrich Safety Tread Tires, for they represent ninety per cent of our factory output for resale.

Furthermore, while we have put the padded prices on smooth tread tires on the run, the evil of padded prices on non-skid tires still is in evidence, as shown in table below:

Note the following table of comparative prices on non-skid tires. Columns headed "A," "B," "C" and "D" represent four highly-advertised tires:

Size	Goodrich Safety Tread	OTHER MAKES
		"A"	"B"	"C"	"D"
30x3	$ 9.45	$10.55	$10.95	$16.35	$18.10
30x3½	12.20	13.35	14.20	21.70	23.60
32x3½	14.00	15.40	16.30	22.85	25.30
34x4	20.35	22.30	23 80	31.15	33.55
36x4½	28.70	32.15	33.60	41.85	41.40
37x5	33.90	39.80	41.80	49:85	52.05

If you are charged less for any other make than Goodrich, they are taking it out of the tire; if you are charged more, they are taking it out of you.

Pretty Expensive Steak.

The highest known price ever paid for beefsteak was at Circle City, Alaska, a town that sprang up almost in the night during the Klondike gold excitement. The first steak to reach there sold for $48 a pound. It was a ten pound steak and was sent from a point fifty miles away. It was placed on exhibition and was such a curiosity that all the miners turned out in a body to see it.

Of course every one wanted a piece of the precious meat, and the prices offered might have resulted in a general mining camp quarrel had not some one thought of selling the steak for the benefit of a hospital which a bishop was trying to establish for the miners at Circle City. Bids started at $5 a pound and rose quickly to $35. At last, in order to avoid possible trouble, it was decided to sell tickets at prices ranging from 50 cents to $250 for the privilege of drawing a slice. After $480 worth of tickets had been sold the drawing began, and to the relief of those in charge of the enterprise no serious consequences resulted.—Detroit Free Press.

Read Your Books Again.

Let me implore any reader who has a fairly large library of his own and is honestly anxious to know what his books contain to devote some period of leisure to go through these volumes, shelf by shelf, as they stand, to learn which of them he can remember well, which are half read or unread. What pleasure and profit he would find in recalling the poetry he once so enjoyed or in turning to such essays as he had hitherto overlooked! He would find, I am sure, that the very things he long wanted to know, the poetry that had almost faded from his memory, the bursts of eloquence and prophecy that had stirred his youth, now grown dim in his mind as "an ancient tale, although the words were strong." All this had stood silent and unnoticed on his walls for years and years, while he had been strutting himself with the last short story, the lives of royal laundry women or it may be an article in a magazine.—Frederic Harrison.

Germs and All.

A Louisville woman who is somewhat of a crank on hygiene and who brings up her small daughter according to the latest methods took the child on a day train to a nearby little town. The mother sighed as she glanced at the dusty velvet seat and cloudy windows. The youngster, however, folded her manicured fingers in her white pique lap and apparently tried to absorb as little dirt as possible. Looking up from her magazine, the immaculate parent was horrified to find the small daughter's jaws working violently.

"What have you in your mouth?" she demanded at once.

"Gum," said the child.

"Where did you get it?" gasped the mother.

The child pointed to a clean, round spot on the grimy windowsill.

"There," she said.—Louisville Times

Cost of a Horse.

It costs on an average $104.06 to raise a horse to the age of three years on the farms of Indiana and those of other states. This price has been carefully figured by experts of the department of agriculture, who based their figures on those furnished by 10,000 correspondents scattered throughout the country.

New Mexico can raise horses cheaper than the other states, or at an average price of $60.50. In Massachusetts the raising of colts is more expensive than in any other state, the average horse at three years representing an investment of $141.80.

Not to Be Repeated.

Shakespeare's contention that "there was never a philosopher who could endure the toothache patiently" was disproved by Canon Liddon. After an experience that would have closed the mouths of most of us, Liddon found it possible to write to a friend: "I have been quite laid up with trouble with my few remaining teeth, of which I had five taken out the day before yesterday. As only four remain, this particular experience cannot be repeated in this present life." This is a classic instance of the triumph of philosophy over pain.—London Globe.

The Atlantic Coast.

The eastern edge of the North American continent is overflowed by the sea, and that is why the water near the coast is so shallow. To find the true edge of the great continental land mass one would have to travel something like eighty miles due eastward from New York.

Lincoln's Rules of Life.

I am not bound to win, but I am bound to be true; I am not bound to succeed, but I am bound to live up to the light that I have. I must stand with anybody who stands right—stand with him while he is right and part from him when he goes wrong.—A. Lincoln.

Geranium Oil.

Geranium oil is largely used in perfumery and is known as rose geranium, owing to the common practice of adding rose petals to the plants before distillation.

Floating Bridge.

Two bridges in a city in India are supported on large metal tanks, which float on the water and accommodate themselves to its rise and fall.

A Billion Dollars.

"I wonder if we realize when we talk of a billion dollars what an enormous sum of money it means. We all know how rapidly an expert counter of coins will manipulate them. You can scarcely follow the motion of his fingers as he shifts the coins from one pile to another and counts them. The treasury experts will count 4,000 silver dollars in an hour and keep it up all day long, but that is their limit.

"Working eight hours a day, then, an expert counter of coins will count 32,000 silver dollars in a day, but how long will it take him at that rate to count a million dollars? Thirty-one days. But that is only the beginning of the measurements of great figures, for if this same man were to go on counting silver dollars at the same rate of speed for ten years he would find that he had counted [illegible] of them and that to count a billion dollars would require 102 years of steady work at the rate of eight hours a day during every working day of every one of the 102 years." — O. P. Austin, Former Chief of the Bureau of Statistics.

At Night In Africa.

Stewart Edward White, writing in the American Magazine on lion adventures, comments as follows on the ravages of wild animals in Africa after nightfall:

"We spent the short evening each in his own fashion. I in my canvas chair smoking, the men squatted on their heels around their tiny fires eating quantities of meat and corn meal. Outside our little dome of light the night businesses of the veldt went forward. Only the most formidable or the most insignificant creatures raised their voices except in alarm or warning. Lions roared; insects hummed and chirped. Out there in the dark was a different world from that in which we moved so freely during the daylight hours—a dangerous, tragic world. Next day we would find evidences of the fact. I have seen killed by lions the remains of every sort of creature except buffalo and rhinoceros. Lions are said occasionally to kill even buffalo, though rarely."

Stars In the Daytime.

"Where are the stars in the daytime?" a child asked, and the wise man said:

"The stars in the daytime are just where they are at night, and if something could be put over the sun we should see them again. Something is put over the sun sometimes, for the moon comes in the way, so that for a time he cannot be seen, even though it is daytime and there are no clouds in the sky. When that happens one of the most wonderful things in the world is to see the stars 'come out again.' They were there all the time, shining as brightly as ever, but the sun is so very much brighter to us, because he is so very much nearer to us, that we could not see them.

"When you are listening to thunder or to a cannon you do not hear the quiet sound of your own breathing, although the thunder is far away and the breathing is near, and just as the great noise swallows up the little sound so the great light of the sun swallows up the little light of the stars."—Kansas City Star.

The Falklands.

Buried in banks of fog, drenched in drizzling rains, swept by bitter winds from the Antarctic, the Falkland islands are surely the most dismal of Great Britain's family of organized colonies. The rain ceases only when the wind blows the fiercest, the fog hangs low and heavy except when the gales whip it to shreds. It is a treeless land, part barren rocks and part grassy slopes. A day of sunshine is a rare joy. Tierra del Fuego is its nearest neighbor. The people, some 2,000 in number, are sturdy descendants of Scorch immigrants, and the sheep that browse on the eternally damp hills are their only source of revenue. Yet there is a capital, a government and a governor duly appointed by the crown and sent to suffer virtual exile for a time among the moist shepherds of the antipodes. The Falkland islands appeal to the imagination as the remotest, loneliest and least desirable of all lands inhabited by Europeans.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Conscription.

With the exception of the one occasion in 1863, when the quotas of the states did not fill up as rapidly as desired, there has been no conscription in the United States. The draft riot in New York was the outcome of this conscription, and, as it happened, the muster rolls were filled in the meantime without need of the men originally drafted.

Conscription was ruthless at one time in England. The worst form of conscription was employed in connection with recruiting the navy in Nelson's time. No one was safe from attack by the redoubtable press gangs, and the victories of this glorious epoch of England's history were won in part by men who often kicked and bit and fussed to break away from the gangs that hurled them into the navy.—New York Sun.

Harder Than Diamonds.

Although the diamond is generally regarded as the hardest of all substances, it is a fact that there is a substance even harder. This is a metal known as tantalum, a rare metal, although not one of the rarest. Just how hard it is may be imagined when it is mentioned that a thin sheet of it was once placed under a diamond drill worked day and night for three days. The only effect was a slight indentation in the tantalum and the wearing out of the diamond. Tantalum is very difficult to produce, but when it can be obtained in sufficient quantities it will be an exceedingly useful substance. Among its other uses it will be employed to cut diamonds and to make filaments for electric lamps. It is one of the few substances that are hard without being brittle.

The "Death Watch."

The so called "death watch," with its mysterious ticking at night time, is due to nothing more serious than the furniture beetle. The larva of this insect burrows in the furniture, making the pin holes which are often to be seen in old furniture. It is three years in its pupa condition and at length becomes a little brown insect with a great talent for shamming death, so that it is not very much observed. These beetles often strike the wood of their galleries with their heads, and so produce a ticking sound which is a call to the mate.

Slightly Sarcastic.

"I am convinced that in many respects I resemble George Washington," said the pompous man.

"It seems unfair," replied Miss Cayenne, "that an accident of chronology should have placed you at such a disadvantage. Merely because Washington was born first people say you resemble him instead of saying he resembles you. It really seems unfair."—Washington Star.

Magnetic Mountains.

The mountains of Porto Rico are so magnetic that they attract surveyors' plumb lines, and it has been found that some old surveys are incorrect by half a mile or more.

It's a Great School.

There was a good turnout, more than 25 farmers of that section being present to watch him pruning peach, apple and cherry trees of all ages. Last Wednesday he was at the A. E. Mollenauer orchard, near Eighty-Four and pruned grape vines apple and peach trees.

BODY OF MAN KILLED IN WEST BACK FOR BURIAL

Charles Tempest Fell on Bolts He Was Carrying. Sustained Injuries Which Caused Death.

The body of Charles Tempest, son of Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Tempest, who died in the St. Joseph hospital at Fort Wayne, Indiana, Wednesday following an operation, arrived in Monongahela Friday and was taken to the home of his grandmother, Mrs. John Tempest in Nelson street, from where funeral services were held this morning at 11 o'clock with interment in the Monongahela cemetery.

The unfortunate man who was aged 26 years was employed at the P. R. R. repair shop at Fort Wayne, and was in the act of carrying a number of bolts down some steps from the stock room when he missed his footing and fell on the bolts, one bolt puncturing an intestine. He was rushed to the St. Joseph's hospital and everything that medical skill could do was done but he never rallied from the operation.

VISITING DELEGATION

ent. The sermon theme will be "Love." Sunday night the sermon that was scheduled for last Sunday night, but which at the last moment was changed, will be preached. The theme of it is, "Satan's Defeat."

Now.

The evangelist took for his text Friday evening, 2 Cor. 6:2, dwelling upon the little word "now". He said: I am not going to talk to the man who sits beside you or your neighbor, but I want to talk to the man who sits just where you do. What are you doing Now? There isn't a thing that you are working for that you can keep. What do you think goes to heaven; banks, oil wells, coal mines? The only thing you can keep is your eternal soul. You can't battle up things so that the poor can't get the benefit. The rich man has his beautiful flower gardens but the poor man can see them and enjoy them as he passes to work. Money doesn't make a man happy after all. "What shall it profit a man if he gain the whole world and lost his own soul!" Time used in seeking pleasure is a thousand times worse than lost. What if you had to meet God tonight, would you be ready? Being good from now on doesn't square up the back debt. You owe God every minute of this year to make up for this year; that won't cover the past. Paying your debts from now on doesn't settle the debts that you made last year.

Some men say that they are waiting for feeling. You can't depend upon feeling for a lie believed and acted upon will produce the same effect as the truth. Jacob believed that his son Joseph was dead and he mourned for him, and even when they brought the news that he was alive, they had an awful time getting Jacob to believe it. When a man gets established in an error, it is the hardest thing in the world to get him out of it. There is nothing in feeling. When I go to the real estate office and buy a piece of property, the real estate man might say to me, after I had handed over the money, "Don't you feel that you've got it now?" I would say "I want to see the contract first and then I'll know". Just so if it says so in God's Word, then you know and that is the only way that you can know. Some men say that they don't believe, but my dear infidel friend, if you don't believe you will have to tell me what is the power that picks up a drunken man in the gutter and makes and transforms him into one of our noblest of men. How can you explain these things without God?
